8:30 Welcome For Champs

By Wilbur Flachman

Win or lose today, Wartburg football team will be given a hero's welcome when it returns to Waverly tonight.

A car caravan of Waverly residents and Wartburg students will meet the squad at Island Park in Cedar Falls sometime between 8 and 8:30 tonight. The lineup will proceed north to the city limits of Waverly, where it will meet the Waverly Fire Department for an escort into town. Carnation plant will blast off with all whistles, according to Al Bahlmann of the Waverly Junior Chamber of Commerce, in charge of the escort and convoy.

A spontaneous ceremony will follow in Knigbts Gym about 9 p.m. Dr. John Chellevold, dean of faculty, is scheduled to handle M. C. duties for this portion of the festivities. The pep band will be on hand to lend its talents for the occasion.

Kickoff 1:30 Today

Kickoff time for the important battle at Simpson today will be 1:30. A direct telephone line will carry the game into Knights Gym, where students and townspeople will gather to hear the broadcast. Don Claggett, KWAR announcer, will do the play by play for the gymnasium audience.

A win today or a loss by Luther would give Wartburg a clear title to the conference championship. A title tie was assured by last Saturday's 26-7 win over Central.

At any rate, classes will be dismissed Monday morning for convocation in honor of the team. Breakfast will be served from 8 until 9:30, according to Dean of Students Earnest Oppermann, chairman of the committee which laid plans for the festivities. Waverly people are invited to the breakfast.

Convo at 10 Monday

At 10 the celebration will return to the gymnasium. Student Body President Jim Schwarz will be master of ceremonies Monday. On hand to help color the festivities will be Hamlet Peterson and Edsel Schweitzer of Luther College. Peterson will present tbe Iowa Conference championship trophy, should the Knights win sole possession.

Also speaking Monday will be coaches and captains of the Wartburg squad. Ed Droste will represent the Waverly Chamber of Commerce and will speak briefly. Les Duke of Grinnell, commissioner of the Iowa Conference, has been invited to put in an appearance.

Representatives of the Waterloo Courier, Des Moines Register and the Waverly paper are expected to be in attendance. The local Chamber of Commerce also has a presentation for the Student Body, according to Jack Bailey, Chamber president. Several Iowa college presidents will be in town and will take part in the gala affair.

Classes will resume at 1 p.m. Monday.

DAVE JENSEN reads Wartburg grid success story, while Wayne Dreier, left, and Chuck Nichol look on in approval. All three will be in the lineup at Simpson this afternoon when Wartburg attempts to gain its first clear-cut title in school history.

Artist Series Presents Vienna Academy Chorus Sunday, November 23

Wartburg College Artist Series will present the Vienna Academy Chorus Sunday, Nov. 23. Second of four presentations for the season, it will be held in Knights Gymnasium at 8 p.m.

Directed by 25-year-old Guenther Theuring, the chorus will present a three-part program. Part one, comprised of sacred music and Mozart choruses, is sung in evening dress. Tyrolean peasant costume will be donned for the second part, Austrian folk music complete with yodeling. Part three, classical Vienna, is sung in the attire of 19th century Vienna.

Can Play, Too

In addition to being a singer, each member of the group is an accomplished instrumentalist. Consequently, accompaniment is not limited to piano or organ but includes cellos, violins and concertinas, played by the vocalists themselves.

The chorus was chosen from the most talented graduates of the Vienna Academy of Music by Professor Ferdinand Grossman, Choral Department head, in 1945. Well received in Vienna, the troupe was invited to tour Europe. In 1953 it made its first appearance in the Western Hemisphere.

Two Remain

Remaining Artist Series presentations are Jose Greco and his Spanish Ballet, appearing Feb. 19, and singer Marian Anderson March 24.

Students and faculty members who have not yet obtained tickets for the chorus may contact Dr. A. W. Swensen, Artist Series chairman.

THE VIENNA ACADEMY Chorus will appear in Knights Gymnasium Sunday, Nov. 23, in the second Artist Series presentation of the year.

Trumpet editor Ed Schaley and Fortress associate editor Ed Scharlau are presently attending the 34th annual Associated Collegiate Press Conference in Chicago. Regardless, the Trumpet shall sound. In the absence of the editor, managing editor Wilbur Flachman handled the reins of this week's Trumpet.

Pretzlaff Coming To Convo, Chapel This Next Week

The Rev. Theo. J. Pretzlaff, D.D., Director of the Department of the Church and Economic Life of the American Lutheran Church, will be on campus Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week speaking on "The Church and the Economic Order."

The three days are set aside for students to get a better understanding of the Christian's part in business, economics and labor.

Will Lead Convos

Dr. Pretzlaff will speak at both convocations and the evening chapel services those three days. In Tuesday's convo he will speak on "The Concern of Our Church in Economic Life." His speech for Thursday's convo will be "God's Word and My Life."

Tuesday evening at chapel in the Little Theater he will speak on "Living With a Margin." Wednesday evening will revolve around "The Pursuit of Happiness," and Thursday the theme will be "Vessels of God."

Coffee Hour Planned

A coffee hour for the faculty and staff will be included Tuesday afternoon from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in the faculty lounge. On Wednesday afternoon Dr. Pretzlaff will conduct a discussion group for the students in the Student Union.

These three days of emphasis on "The Church and Economic Order" are sponsored by the Faculty-Student Committee on Religious Activities.

'Charlie's Aunt' Arrives Thursday

Wartburg drama season will open Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 20, 21 and 22, at 8 p.m. when the Wartburg Players' production of "Charlie's Aunt" will show in the Little Theater.

Two cast changes are noted by Vernon Lestrud, director. Jackie Lindau, sophomore from Lake Mill, Wis., will portray Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez, while Lestrud himself will play the role of Babberley.

According to Lestrud, rehearsals are going satisfactorily.

"This will probably be the only production in the round given this year," he added.

Choir Home, Concert Tue.

Wartburg College Choir under the direction of Dr. Edwin Liemohn of the Music Department will present its home concert on Tuesday, Nov. 18, in Knights Gymnasium at 8 p.m.

Gov't Work Shows In Open Session

By Linda Mugridge

Two main phases of student government were lumped together Thursday as the senate convened in an open session at the Student Body meeting.

Faculty-student council meeting, senate executive committee discussion with Pres. C. H. Becker and the football program for this weekend were presented to the senate. During the Student Body meeting proper, reports were made on Campus Chest and Pops Concert.

Midsemester tests, elections, Campus Chest and parking received attention at the Faculty-Student Council meeting Monday, according to senior senator Norm Braatz. Explaining that the council is one of the highest committees on campus, Student Body Pres. Jim Schwarz pointed out tbat it makes general recommendations.

Midsemesters Discussed

In regard to midsemesters, Dean Earnest Oppermann suggested to the council that students be given the chance to take tests earlier and that faculty members spread the tests throughout the semester. Recommendations concerning both Who's Who and Homecoming Court elections were also made.

Faculty Participation?

Faculty participation in Campus Chest was questioned by Oppermann. The dean also brought out the fact that students seem to bave the wrong impression about parking areas. That parking fines are taken out of indemnity fees was pointed out.

Campus Chest Chairman Roger Buhr reported on the Chest campaign, which begins Monday. Emphasizing the idea of stewardship, Buhr listed charities receiving funds from the drive and gave campaign procedure.

Let's Change Safety Daze Into Safety Days

READ THIS editorial and time yourself as you read. Go ahead, look up at the clock and check the minute hand. That didn't take long, did it?

In that brief period of time, however, from the time in which your eyes left the paper until they focused on the clock and then found the line of print again, an automobile accident occurred. And if you happened to glance at one of your fellow students walking by before you looked back, policemen somewhere in the United States have two car accidents to investigate.

Rate of auto accidents in the United States is that fast, and is getting increasingly faster as time progresses. Statistics show that several thousand more cars come off the production line every year. As population increases and more drivers get behind the wheel, the situation will get steadily worse.

As college students, we stand in a precarious position regarding auto accident statistics. Young people of the ages of 20-24 have the highest accident rate in the country. Yet this age group is said to have fastest reaction time, and supposedly is at the "quick thinking" stage in life.

With this issue, the TRUMPET is beginning its annual safe-driving campaign. A series of safety articles, as well as pictures, will be printed which should be informative and interesting to Wartburg students. The campaign intends to cover several phases of student driving and to give tips on how to live longer — while behind the wheel.

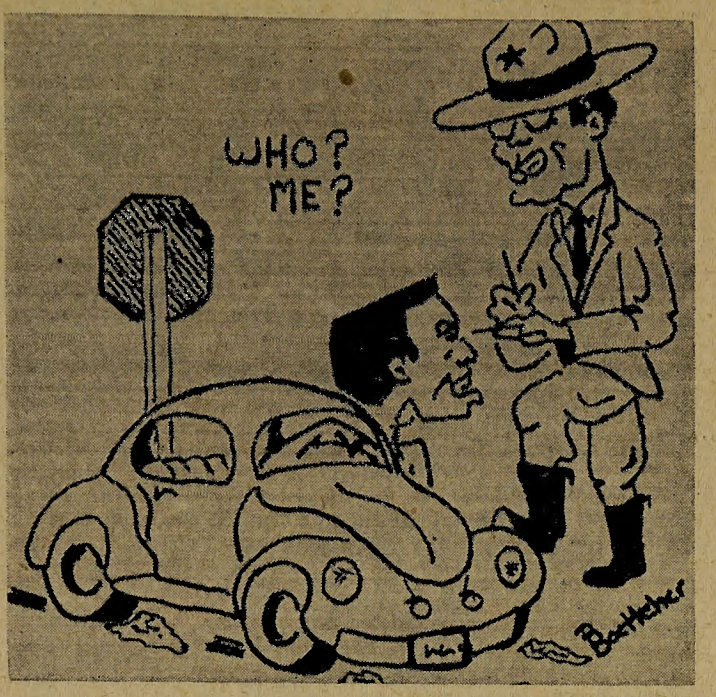
As a kick-off for this campaign, we have a suggestion that would clear up one perplexing problem that involves both pedestrians and drivers on the Wartburg campus.

That would be for the city of Waverly to install automatic stop lights at the intersection in front of the College Hill Pharmacy on Bremer Avenue. When traffic is heavy, it is extremely difficult for persons on foot to cross the four-lane intersection. It is equally troublesome for cars from the north side street, namely those coming from Wartburg College, to enter traffic, since you have to have half of your car onto the street before you can see another auto nearly take the front end of your car off.

Besides serving pedestrians and merging traffic, the stop lights would also serve to slow down rushing traffic. Drivers tend to speed through this area anyhow, since there are no stops between the Fourth Street signals and the city limits, a stretch of about twelve blocks or more.

We feel that such progress would be getting closer to the proper approach to handling safety problems. Taking steps to prevent an accident before it occurs, doesn't often happen because officials are unaware of a safety trap. There has been no recent accident at this intersection, of late, but with the growth of the college and the opening of the Pharmacy, the threat of a mishap looms stronger here than at any other place in the city. Safety is YOUR business. A signed petition in the hands of the city dads would probably bear great weight.

Now that you are about through with this, look up at the clock again. If it has taken you anywhere near thirteen minutes to read this, some person in the United States has died as a result of car accidents. Think of it! Think of it as you throw this paper away. Think of it as you get into your car. Think of it as you drive down the highway. Take a pencil and some paper along as you drive. Tabulate the slaughter as you count off the minutes and the miles. Only make sure there isn't an unlucky 13 waiting for you around the bend. — (W.F.)



Knight Life

By Don Claggett

Today is the day when the victorious Johansen squad completes Iowa Conference play. Final contest will be played at Simpson, starting at 1:30 p.m.

Norm Johansen, his assistants and the men of Wartburg have shown once again that Wartburg is a college that has perfection as its goal. Wartburg is growing materially, academically and spiritually. Athletics has shown that it's not going to be left behind. It requires concentrated effort on the part of many people to produce the caliber of team that Wartburg has fielded this year. To all these people we say, "Thanks." Thanks for helping to prove that Wartburg College is a winner!

Judging from the success of the "Dragball" skit presented at the Student Body meeting, we can't help feeling that this column would be more humorous if we could print the type of humor that was displayed in the skit.

Democrats have a landslide and Roy's Place has a new TV. Which proves you can't hold the common man down. Mueller's comment on the TV set was of a negative nature.

Looking for a good laugh? Here's a tip. (Maybe you could call it a plug.) Wartburg is presenting "Charlie's Aunt" on Nov. 20, 21 and 22. "Charlie's Aunt" is a comedy in three acts, and every line is hilarious. Don't miss it!

Sometimes problems which college students encounter seem to be without solution. When all seems lost and you feel that your efforts are to no avail, remember some of the problems of your classmates, and your troubles will disappear. The Old Philosopher would put it this way:

You say your term paper is due in the morning, and the reserve books are all checked out, and you're out of No Doze pills?

You say you stayed up till 5 a.m. studying for a philosophy test, and the prof canceled the test because he wasn't certain of his own philosophy?

You say you spend more time studying your two hours of Christianity than you do your other 16 hours, and you still can't get a "B"?

Is that what's bothering you, friend?

You say you didn't make Who's Who, but since you won't have enough credits to graduate, you can try again next year?

You say you've been saving since June for Christmas presents, only to find that your roommate borrowed it for his Campus Chest contribution?

Is that what's on your mind, buddy?

You say you just found out that what you thought was a cold turned out to be an acute hangover, Asian flu, mononucleosis, Nebishness and galloping pneumonia, and your finals start in two days, and the nurse still believes you're bluffing?

You say you're starving to death because when your favorite dish is served in the "caf," everyone cuts line in front of you, and you have to eat hot dogs, and hot dogs make you deathly ill?

You say you've lost so much change in the pop and milk machines in the dorm that you can't even afford to buy an egg sandwich at Roy's?

Is that what's got you down, pal?

So you do have troubles — cheer up! You can always flunk out now and avoid the semester rush or just simply grin and bear it. Just remember, troubles build character and characters we are.

Faculty Member Says Songs Unsung

Dear Editor:

My attention has been called to a statement in one of your columns (I have never read this column since the first issue) to the effect that beer songs would be sung at the next Hans Sachs meeting. This is not only slanderous, but in extremely poor taste. Wartburg College is a Christian College and your Trumpet reaches many homes outside the campus. Hans Sachs Verein meeting begin with devotions and the singing of spiritual songs. Any secular songs sung at the meeting are of the type that can be sung in any school that can be sung in any school from the first grade through college.

Waging 1:30 War On Redman Field For Loop Title

By Steve VanGuilder

Wartburg's final football game in the bid for conference championship is set for this afternoon in a 1:30 raid at Simpson College, Indianola.

Most of the regulars of last year's team have graduated, so the team this season for the Redmen consisted primarily of new players. The youth of the squad is shown by the fact that there are only four senior and twelve letterman returnees.

Redmen Have New Chief

Along with the young ball club this season, the Redmen are also under a new coach. Coach E. G. Booth took over the directorship of atbletics and the head football coaching position at Simpson this fall after serving as assistant football coach and head track coach at Grinnell College for eight years.

Simpson is presently in sixth place with two wins, four losses and one tied game. Last season the Redmen closed out the season with a four-win-four-loss record. One of tbeir victories was over Wartburg by a score of 20-13.

Knights Gain Share

In last week's tilt, Wartburg gained at least a tie for the Iowa Conference football championship by defeating Central 26-7.

Marv Ott scored three of Wartburg's four touchdowns. Ott scored on a 12-yard run and two one-yard plunges. The other TD was scored by Wayne Dreier on a 27-yard run. Conversions for two points were kicked by Krominga. Lone Central score came in the second period when quarterback Graham Fee threw Darrell Brand a 25-yard pass in the end zone.

"I'M NOT LONELY ANY MORE," proclaims an unidentified Central ball carrier as orange-clad Knights move in from all directions during second half of last week's 26-7 win over the Dutchmen.

Lineman Of The Week

Wallin

Chuck Wallin, sophomore from Gaylord, Minn., has been chosen as "Lineman of the Week," collecting four of the possible six votes. Wayne Dreier, sophomore from Preston, Minn., received the remaining two votes.

Wallin broke his thumb in practice this week, but is still expected to see action in today's game with Simpson.

Gym Team Here Wed.

Danish gymnasts will perform a few tricks for Wartburg and area enthusiasts in the Knights Gym next Wednesday evening.

In the midst of their third tour of the United States and Canada, the 26-member group will perform in two other Iowa schools on preceding nights, West Waterloo High School on the 17th, and Iowa State Teachers the 18th.

Members of the traveling troupe are all graduates of the Danish Folk High School of Gymnastics. Many of them are presently gym instructors.

Their program will consist of fundamental warm-ups, courtesy dances, derived from those in vogue in the 17th and 18th century court life, and natural dances, ranging from tbe 1300 era to 1800. Other features of the program include stall bar tricks, advanced gymnastics, folk dances, acrobatics, apparatus and tumbling.

The program is scheduled to start at 8 p.m. with adult tickets priced at one dollar and student tickets 50 cents.

Runners Winless, But Still Running

Bob Boettcher

By Don Bathgate

Have you walked past the football field late some afternoon and noticed seven Wartburg men eagerly running around the track? If you have, you probably wondered who they were and what they were doing.

Those seven men are members of Wartburg's cross-country team. They are conditioning for a two-to four-mile race, which is usually held at the city golf course. This event is run in an area where there are hills and valleys to make the running more difficult.

Cross Country Different

Cross country is an event that is scored just the opposite from most other sports. In this event it is the team with the lowest score that wins. The runner wbo finishes first receives one point, and the runner who finishes second receives two points, etc. The points of the first five runners from each team are added together, and the team with the lowest score wins the event.

This is the tbird year of cross country at Wartburg. The squad, coached by Bob Campbell, has been rather unfortunate this year, as it has yet to win a contest. Today the thinclads will travel to Simpson and will run prior to the football game in an effort to gain their first victory.

Picking Up Splinters

By Wilbur Flachman

Birth Of A Champion

For 35 years, since football was originated here, the Wartburg football well has been dry. For all these years there has been an empty space in the trophy case. For 35 seasons Knight football records have fluctuated from "almost" to mediocre to just plain lousy.

At long last a champion is born. Perhaps not born, but made — made by patience (tolerance has been the motto for three and one half decades), made by hard work, sweat, broken bones and much mental anxiety and planning.

It's been a long time coming, this champion, but it's here. It's new, it's exciting, it's part of us. It's representative of the tremendous versatility in the Wartburg student body. It's representative of the rest of the growth of the Wartburg family and facilities.

No longer will our football trophy case be empty. No longer will we let other teams wipe their shoes on us year after year. A new king is born to reign in long-awaited glory.

Knight Coach Norm Johansen was guest speaker at the Des Moines Chapter of Football Writers of America Wednesday. Jo was also honored by a cartoon in the Waterloo Courier Thursday. We wouldn't be too much surprised to see the Knight mentor named "Coach of the Year" among small colleges. He would get many, many votes from this section of the country. In no football magazine can I find a coach this year who has produced the school's first championship and first undefeated season.

With the best season in Wartburg bistory still one game from beng completed, statisticians Larry Niemann and Duane Schroeder are going berserk trying to keep up on all the records the '59 edition has broken.

Quarterback Marv Ott has already eclipsed the total offense mark. Fullback Larry Raper has bulled his way to a new rushing mark for one season, and the team has claimed a new title on ground attack. Ott is one TD short of the all-time single season scoring record, and the squad needs 29 points this week to break the squad scoring mark. If Simpson scores less than 25 today, the Knights will also set a defensive scoring record.

Dr. Ax Bundgaard, athletic director, will speak at a banquet bonoring Fayette High School football players this week.

Wartburg's new club for pbysical education majors and minors will hold its organizational meeting in the north classroom of Knights Gym Monday at 7 p.m.

Speed + Drowsiness : Crash

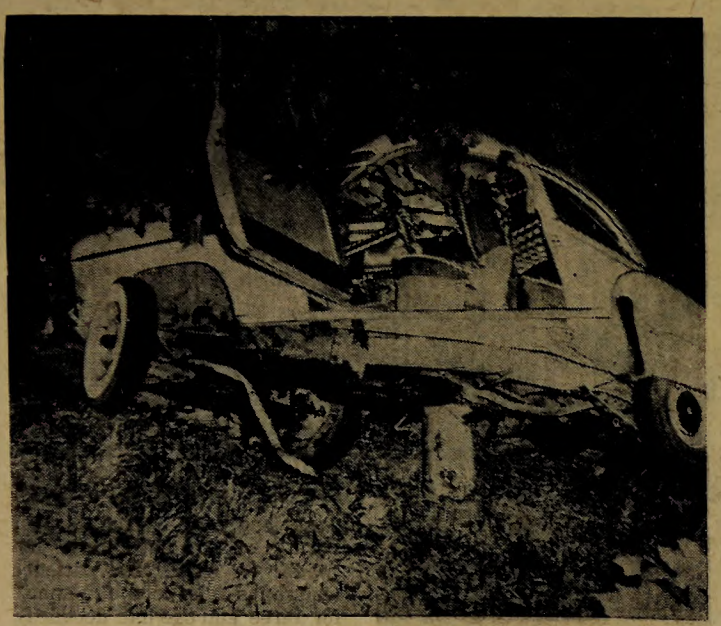
By Wilbur Flachman

Death never takes a vacation, but it may take your vacation.

If National Safety Council statistics and averages hold true, at least two Wartburg students will die as a result of traffic accidents over the vacation holidays. Approximately four more Wartburgers will be permanently disabled by car wrecks if these figures are consistent.

Past history of Wartburg drivers reveals that they have cheated accident tabulations. Yet each 1958-'59 student will pack his suitcase and head for his home with the possibility of erasing his name to become just another statistic.

When Mother and Dad finally welcome Jane or Joe home for the turkey and trimmings, their real concern for Junior's safety should just be starting. Contrary to nearly all campaigns for that "safe journey home," the greatest percentage of car accidents involving college students actually happen on the return trip to school.



From Iowa Highway Patrol Files

THIS DRIVER might have gone to sleep at the wheel, or he might have been going too fast. Whichever happened, the result is evident.

Voice of Experience

Such is the opinion of Lt. John Schneider, who is stationed at the Cedar Falls office of the Iowa Highway Patrol. Schneider formerly patrolled the Iowa City district for 13 years, investigating countless accidents involving University of Iowa, Cornell, Coe and St. Ambrose students.

"When kids start home, they want to get home so badly that they usually are rather cautious," Schneider reported. "When they come back to school, they wait until the very last minute to leave. They usually have their minds on what they did over the vacation, rather than on their driving.

"Most of them stay out late the night before returning and are probably fatigued," Schneider related. "A fatigued driver is the worst driver on the road — even worse than an intoxicated driver."

Drunk Gives Warning

Lt. Schneider, a veteran of more than twenty years of ticketing roadrunners, explained that a drunk driver follows a certain pattern, weaving from one side of the road to the other.

"He usually gives other drivers some warning."

A driver who goes to sleep keeps his machine going in a straight line, either off the road or into another car, and is most likely to end up in the hospital or in the mortuary, according to the patrolman.

"When I actually stop and analyze college students' driving records, use of alcohol doesn't create the greatest problem," he commented.

Safety Council statistics bear out his personal experiences. Figures show that only about two per cent of the accidents caused by college-age drivers involved liquor.

Wheels Turn Slow, Fast

Figures also show that a driver's car will accelerate faster than his brains will. Excessive speed causes 45 per cent of all college-age wrecks.

"Speed, coupled with the numbed head caused by fatigue is our greatest problem," observed Schneider. "A student driving for a long distance should get out of his car at least every two hours and take a break.

"We make all of our patrolmen stop once every hour to relax themselves and ease the driving tension," he stated.

"While driving during the holidays, open each rear window of your car about one inch. Circulation in the back of the car will get rid of fumes from the heater," the law enforcer suggested.

No, No 'No Sleep' Pills

Schneider emphatically warned against college students' using "no sleep" pills while driving.

"They only add to fatigue when young people's minds are burdened with so many other things. A cup of coffee will do far more toward keeping the driver awake.

"By all means, don't wait until late at night to make your trip, thinking that highway traffic will be lighter," the patrolman warned. "A good many other drivers have the same idea. You may meet some of them when you are unaware of the introduction.

"The best precaution for student drivers today is to allow plenty of time for driving back," he finished.

To which might be added a slogan: Make your vacation last — But don't make it THE last.

Seeing that the most logical place to write our column would be the Pub House, and up until now we've practically avoided the place, we've decided to give it a whirl. So here we are, the editor gone conventioning in Chicago, the managing editor busy writing the editorial, and we're taking advantage of the freedom of the press.

"Everyone's looking at me. Is my lace straight? There's tension all over and sweat on the brow of the huge quarterback. They say that I'm really going to get kicked around today. In fact, when you get right down to it, I'm the crucial figure that will accompany the team home from the Simpson game, which will be at Indianola, beginning at 1:30 p.m. In case you have not guessed — I'm the football."

"There's a whole lot of playing going on." A Fun Night will be held in the Knights Gym at 7:30 p.m., this Saturday night.

Sleep late! Have a leisurely breakfast! And all because Wartburg is a winner. Which just goes to prove it's a grade-A school. Breakfast will be from 8 to 9:30 a.m. with a special convocation at 10 in Knights Gym.

Fellowshipers! Dock into the Mission Fellowship meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Wartburg Hall Lounge.

Our choir returns and will burst into song, if any of the group have voices left. They will give a concert in Knights Gym at 8 p.m. on Tuesday.

Wednesday night WAA members are turning in their mats and relinquishing their space to the Danish Gym team at 8 p.m.

Broadway has again hit the Wartburg campus, in the form of "Charlie's Aunt." The play will run Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m., under the direction of Vernon Lestrud.

The editor is returning, and we are clearing out before he discovers that we don't really have ghost writers. We do it all by ourselves.
